Burberry handbags may not be the most faked of bags [the most copied tend to be Gucci and Louis Vuitton: they have a high resale value which makes fakes a better deal than a second-hand model].

Burberry knockoffs tend to be mundane variants on the Burberry check, which helps genuine Burberry stay somewhat under the fake radar with high quality, conservative but less copied originals.

Nevertheless, fakes exist.

That takes work and a good eye.

High-end technology and in-house craftsmanship are luxuries that hurried sweatshops do not have.

Stitching is not just an aesthetic concern either: badly stitched items will almost certainly fall apart in next to no time.

Don't just trust that it has a label or plaque.

Expect fakes to be bulkier – getting that uniform square bearing from a fake is almost impossible and one of the reasons fakes tend to emulate plusher bag variants.
